My name is Diana Elizabeth Jordan. I am an actress and aspiring producer dedicated to working on film and television project committed to featuring the culturally diverse American Scene.

As an African American actress who has a disability ( which slightly effects my speech and gait, I see my disability not as a limitation but as a wonderful opportunity to add another dimension to the culturally diverse American Scene.

Throughout my career, I hope to not only be cast in disability specific roles but also in roles where my disability is incidental to the character or storyline.

I am also an acting coach and work with Performing Arts Studio West a performing arts organization that trains, manages and advocates for equal opportunities for actors with developmental disabilities. Our actors have been featured on The WB's 7th Heaven, NBC's ER and TNT's Saving Grace and as well as short and feature films.
